I never really considered manufacturing to be a career pathway for me and I blame it on the fact that I didn't really know that a job in the manufacturing career pathway would look like.

When I thought about it before I watched the [career] videos, to me it just sounds like you're in like a factory watching machines mass-produce cars by the second and they're just overseeing...But when I saw the career video I realized that it's nothing like that, it actually changed my opinion on it a lot!
